

Ellen Macarthur Foundation's New Plastic Economy Global Commitment; What's Next

Last year, at Our Ocean 2018, over 250 organisations signed a Global Commitment to eradicate plastic pollution at the source.

Over the past 12 months, not only has this group grown to over 400 signatories, also real progress has been made and ambition levels have been raised.

During this event, the first annual progress update of the Global Commitment will be published, creating unprecedented transparency on progress towards a circular economy for plastics.

On top of that, some leading business and government signatories will talk about their progress and announce major next steps and more ambitious commitments.
